

Historical Society salutes Safety Department with exhibit

The Oakwood Historical Society has a new pictorial display in its museum room at the Homestead. Saluting the Oakwood Department of Public Safety, it features pictures from years past of the Police, Fire and EMS equipment and the training program and public service programs of the department. From the original White fire truck of 1925 to the latest pumpers, from the original converted sedan to the latest ambulance equipped with life saving equipment, from the original motorcycles to the latest SUV's – it's all there.

Also pictured is training exercises, D.A.R.E., and bicycles and the officers who put them to use. Recall the police cars with the racing stripes and the black and white six-cylinder hydramatic coupes. We salute the dual trained department with a three-minute response time.

The Homestead is open on Sunday afternoon, Oct 11 and 25.
