

'Round Town

Last Thursday, Jean Woodhull had a late afternoon 'do' at her home and gardens to stimulate interest in the Five Rivers Metro Parks. Their budget-renewal will be on the ballot this fall. You'll see the Metro Park signs in yards all over Oakwood. This project to continue support is a 'must.' There are over 15,000 acres of park space in our Miami Valley area. Few other communities can boast having this fantastic 'green space.' Vote to renew this levy!

Last Thursday evening was the opening of Wright State University's first play of their 35th season. The vehicle was: "Proof" by David Auburn. As Stuart McDowell, dept. chair and artistic director said when greeting the 'opening night audience' "I was unprepared for the impact this four-person play would have upon me that autumn of 2002. I won't say any more about this story because I want you to experience it for the first time."

"Proof" is a play about scientists whose science matters less than their humanity. All four actors are seniors at WSU – Amy Geist, Valerie Gerlock, Zach Brown and Cameron Hansel.

Director was Mary Donahoe.

Give yourself a gift by seeing "Proof" this coming weekend at the Festival Playhouse, Robert and Elaine Stein Auditorium. Call 775-2500 for tickets. Also, you might check with Burt Saidel, Professor Romagorah of UD, or any of the faculty members of Wright State – all of them were in the audience that opening night!

Friday, the Montgomery County Medical Society held their annual Style Show fundraiser at the Mandalay Banquet Center. It's always a huge gala, an exciting mix of most attractive lady doctors, doctor's wives, and the family and friends of all of the above! The program read: "stepping out in style...with Saks Fifth Avenue, Cincinnati featuring Les Copains Fashions and Birger Christensen Furs...each attendee will receive a 'special Saks Fifth Avenue shopping pass.'"

Kanna Muttiah, president of MCMS, said "...the monies raised by today's event will be awarded to deserving students in the medical, nursing, and allied health fields in Montgomery County. Last year we awarded $17,700 to date, the alliance has awarded over $820,000." Hyacinth Dey, Ph.D., was Chair of the event. Her co-chair was Will Singer. Charlayne Phillips, Deepika Reddiwari, Elizabeth Yohannon, Gwen Frericks, Kalp Shah, Margaret Rodeghers, Pat Templeton, Reena Gayal, and Sara Rich comprised the Committee.

Sponsors were: Good Samaritan Hospital, James Free Jewelers, Kelle's Boutique, Kettering Health Network, Miami Valley Hospital, Peddanna International, The Children's Medical Center, Dayton Heart Hospital, and the Golf Club at Yankee Trace.

The Mandalay was completely filled with tables for eight to ten guests. There must have been over one hundred attendees. Their names would fill this entire issue of the Oakwood Register!

The Camargo Hunt (Cincinnati) held their annual Hunter Trials in Indian Hill last Saturday. The Traders Point Hunt (of Indianapolis) held their Hunter Trials in Zionsville the same day. That's a lotta horsin' around! There were alotta Dayton and Oakwood riders at both Trials. And, the weather man was kind to both events.
